Jeff Ganzagan

KTA Downtown, Hilo Store Director

Aloha KTA 'ohana,

Here at KTA Super Stores, we are a big fan of supporting local. After all, we are a family-owned business that started out as a modest grocery and dry goods store in 1916 by Koichi and Taniyo Taniguchi. Thanks to the love and patronage of families, friends and neighbors, we are now a supermarket chain with seven stores on the island!

Supporting a local business not only strengthens our economy but provides employment opportunities and promotes environmental sustainability. There are many ways to start! You can start small by buying just one locally grown produce or good when you go shopping for groceries. Support farmers by signing up for a CSA or stopping by a farmer's market. If you're buying a gift for a friend or family member, consider a gift card to a local restaurant or small business.

Share how you support local with us on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. You're someone special every day at KTA since 1916.

Garlic Shrimp

- 1 cup fresh, peeled garlic cloves, minced fine in a processor
- 1 tbsp. canola oil
- 1 tbsp. black pepper pg.12
- 3 cups chicken or vegetable stock, divided pg.13
- ¼ cup apple cider vinegar
- ¼ cup unsalted butter pg.45
- 2 lbs. 16 to 24 shrimp, deveined, shelled, tail on pg.47
- 3 tbsp. cornstarch
- ¼ cup crème fraiche or sour cream
- juice from one lemon
- 1 tsp. garlic salt pg.12
- 1 tsp. dried or fresh parsley

To make the garlic base, process the garlic cloves in a food processor until fully minced. You can use a regular blender instead, but you may have to add some water to really get the garlic minced into a chunky paste. Next, heat a medium frying pan on medium heat, add the oil and the garlic and cook for 2 to 3 minutes, stir consistently. Add the black pepper and stir for one more minute to release the oils. Then add 2½ cups stock and vinegar, gently simmering until the liquid has disappeared. At this point, the garlic should be a rich, light brown. Remove from heat and cool.

Heat a medium saucepan on the stovetop at medium heat and add butter and the garlic base. When the butter is melted, add the shrimp. Add the cornstarch to the reserved ¾ cup stock and continue to sauté the shrimp. When the shrimp are slightly pink, add the stock mixture. Turn the heat to medium high and the sauce will start to thicken—when it does, add the crème fraiche or sour cream, lemon juice and season to taste with garlic salt. Finish with a sprinkle of parsley for color and serve with the side that you most desire!

Chef's Note: The secret to this garlic shrimp is the garlic base—which is cooked ahead of time and imparts a garlicky goodness that is not bitey or overwhelming. You can serve this on its own, or over pasta, with rice or bread or on polenta—the options are endless.*

Thai Red Curry Coconut & Kale Soup

1½ tsp. extra virgin olive oil or vegetable oil pg.15

1 medium onion, minced very fine
or pulsed in a processor

2 tbsp. Thai red curry paste pg.39

1 tsp. ground turmeric

1 tbsp. granulated garlic

1 tsp. garlic salt pg.12

2 tbsp. Thai or Vietnamese fish sauce
pg.39

14 oz. can of unsweetened coconut milk
pg.16

14 oz. can of diced tomatoes pg.9

4 cups vegetable or chicken stock pg.13

1 big bunch of fresh kale, thick spines
removed, chopped

2-3 tbsp. instant mashed potato flakes
to thicken (optional)

2 tbsp. chives, chopped or dried

fresh cilantro, chopped, for garnish

Heat a large soup pot over medium heat, add the oil and sauté the onion for 2 to 3 minutes. Add the curry paste, turmeric, garlic and garlic salt; cook for an additional minute, constantly stirring to help release the essential oils in the spices. Add the fish sauce, coconut milk, diced tomatoes and stock. Bring to a gentle simmer and cook for about 10 minutes. Then add the kale, cooking just until it wilts. If the soup is thin, add instant mashed potato flakes to thicken as needed. To serve, ladle into bowls and top with chopped cilantro and chives.

Chef's note: You can easily make this a meal by adding your favorite protein such as cubed tofu, broccoli, mixed seafood or diced chicken.

Salmon & Caper Melt Panini

cooking spray

1½ lb. salmon fillet pg.46

2 tsp. dill, divided

1 tsp. garlic salt, divided pg.12

ground black pepper pg.12

½ cup fat free Greek yogurt pg.44

2 tbsp. mayonnaise pg.10, 11

¼ cup capers, rinsed and drained

zest from one lemon

4 slices Swiss cheese,
cut diagonally

4 slices Sourdough bread

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Coat a flat baking pan with cooking spray, place salmon on the pan and season with 1 tsp. dill, ½ tsp. garlic salt and black pepper to taste. Bake the salmon until well done, approximately 20 minutes. The flesh should be firm. Let cool until it can be handled comfortably, then crumble with your fingers into a medium bowl. Add the yogurt, mayonnaise, remaining dill and garlic salt, capers and lemon zest. Gently fold the mixture until thoroughly blended. Do not over stir.

To assemble sandwiches, put two triangle slices of cheese on a piece of bread and spread a ½" thick layer of salmon mixture on the cheese. Place two more triangles of cheese over the mixture and top with a slice of bread. (Placing the cheese this way will prevent the contents of the sandwich from falling out when cutting the sandwich in half.) To cook, first spray each side of the sandwich with cooking spray. Press in a heated panini press or in an oiled pan on medium heat. When the cheese is melted and the outside of the bread is toasted and crunchy, remove from heat.

Chef's Note: This is a take on a classic sandwich, the tuna melt, with a healthy twist. Instead of using canned tuna, I've substituted baked fresh salmon, which is one of the healthiest fish you can eat due to its omega-3 content.
